There's a youth (paper) self-completion questionnaire for all the waves planned so far. The documentation for the waves that are or have been in the field can be found here:

thanks Jakob

I had not realised that there main questionnaire and the main adult questionnaires were both adult questionnaires.
I confess I am still not clear about the distinction where both exist.

I have a related query. Is it possible to view a copy of the main questionnaire in its raw form without hundreds of pages of data documentation accompanying it?

thanks, Jon

'main' refers to the main survey panel as opposed to the smaller innovation panel. Paper self-completion questionnaires and fieldwork forms can be found in the pdf format they were sent in to the printers.

These are both within main:

<https://www.understandingsociety.ac.uk/documentation/mainstage/questionnaires> can i access the questionnaire-only version of "Main - questionnaire (CAPI)"

cheers, Jon

What you see is a copy of our own questionnaire specification. The CAPI Blaise scripts are owned by the fieldwork agency (NatCen) and we don't have permission to share these.
