Description
Hello
I would like to enquire whether there is any representation of the nursing occupation in the Understanding Society datasets and how sizable such a sample would be. The research team at RCN are looking at ways to use existing data, and longitudinal data in particular, to include population data collected for other/general purposes, to examine a number of outcomes that relate to employment and health among other things. Any ideas and/or discussion in relation to this would be much appreciated.
Kind regards
Anda
