Citizenship question -- only once?

Description Am I correct in perceiving (from the "Content Plan" document) that the citizen question (CITZN) will be asked only once (first wave or upon panel entry)? I hope the answer is no, at least for those respondents who indicate on first answer that they are not UK citizens. Citizenship is not a "stable characteristic" -- certainly not for immigrants. My research depends on being able to know when a panel member has become a naturalized UK citizen. thank you, David Bartram

David, Thanks for raising this. It is a good point and something we will have to consider for future waves. I have forwarded your request to the team that deals with content and consultation for the questionnaires.

Thank you, Jakob. Is there any way of gauging how quickly they are likely to respond/react? (I have some very anxious colleagues, worried that my contribution to a grant application we are preparing is in jeopardy.)
